Part 1

Resume Guide: Check off the boxes as you complete each step to revising your resume. To make a copy of this document go to File → Make a Copy.

- ☐ Exaggerate all accomplishments
 - Remember, only be as outrageous as you can defend.
- ☐ Order your resume from best to worst. Here is a good order. Consider halo effect, each person is different.
 - Work Experience
 - Education
 - Skills
 - Relevant Coursework
 - Projects
 - Leadership
 - Technical Clubs/Activities
 - Awards
 - Non-Technical Clubs/Activities
- ☐ Keep it to one page.
- ☐ Check for typos, spacing errors, punctuation errors, etc.
 - Look through your resume with a fine toothed comb. It needs to be as beautiful and nice as possible.
- ☐ Optimize your header
 - ☐ Large Name
 - ☐ Email
 - ☐ Phone Number
 - ☐ LinkedIn Link
 - ☐ U.S. Citizen
 - ☐ GitHub/ Website (optional)
- ☐ Experience formatting checklist (work experience & projects).
 - Example format: Feature → so that → which means → resulting in...
 - ☐ Include diversified titles.
 - ☐ Start each bullet with a different action verb.

- ☐ Have 3-4 bullets for each.
 - ☐ Include numeric outcomes.
 - ☐ Include specific examples.
 - ☐ Include company name and location (if local) on the line of the role.
 - ☐ Removed high school/old/less useful information
 - When you have 4 work experiences, time to start removing elements.
 - ☐ Put your GPA onto a used line.
 - ☐ Get reviews from 3 key people — other people will notice things you don't.
 - CS Friend
 - Parent/Relative
 - Mentor
 - ☐ I've updated my resume promptly with new experiences (this should be ongoing).
 - ☐ Included jobs or internships that haven't started yet.
 - Write "Incoming ____" if it's a position that starts more than 1-2 months from now.
 - Anticipate job requirements and tailor accordingly — you probably don't know what you're doing, but do your best.
 - ☐ Use job description, etc.
 - ☐ At least 1 bullet. Something is better than not including it at all.
 - ☐ Visualize yourself as an experienced software engineer when writing your descriptions.

Part 2

Assignment 1: List out every project you've ever done — from hackathons, research, personal, classes. Bold your top 3 most impressive ones:

- 1.
- 2.
- 3.
- 4.
- 5.

Assignment 2: List out every technical language, framework, idea, concept, everything you've touched even once in your life. And add those to skills. Again, you must be as outrageous as you can defend, so someone needs to be able to ask you about it and you should be able to defend. You can include things you've used only once, as long as you can explain where you used it.

Assignment 4: Brain dump everything you did in your roles, and then consolidate that down into a list of features or bullets using the formula above. This is to help you write your work experience. A good format to use is this:

- Title Name, Company, Location
 - Action verb, main accomplishment→ so that → which means → resulting in...
 - New action verb, second accomplishment→ so that → which means → resulting in...
 - New action verb, third accomplishment→ so that → which means → resulting in...
